ROOSEVELT ARRIVES HOME.

Honored by Great Reception in New York.

Former President Remains Reluctant and Will Discuss Politics Later.

New York, June 18.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, on his arrival home to-day after an absence of fifteen months, received a rousing welcome. He bore with his usual buoyancy a day of heavy fatigue, public duties and private emotions commingled, and at 4:40 o'clock this afternoon, after a family reunion at the home of Theodore Butler, grandfather of his prospective daughter-in-law, Miss Eleanor Butler Alexander, left the city he had surveyed the same morning from aloft, reviewed in parade ashore and greeted by explicit word of mouth to be welcomed more intimately by his life-long neighbors at Oyster Bay, L. I. to-night. Tomorrow he will rest.

That the enthusiastic welcome given him by his own countrymen pleased him far more than any reception, however magnificent, in his tour of Europe, was evident by words and expression. In his first address he said:

"I have been a year and a quarter from America, and I have seen strange and interesting things, unlike in the heart of the frowning wilderness and in the capitals of the mightiest and most highly polished of civilized nations.

"I have thoroughly enjoyed myself, and now I am more glad than I can say to get home, to be back in my own country, back among the people I love, and ready and eager to do my part, so far as I am able, in helping solve the problems which must be solved if we, of this greatest democracy upon which the sun has ever shone, are to see its distinct rise to the high level of our hopes and its opportunities.

As a private citizen he, was the same outspoken, vigorous man of words and deed that the city of his birth has known for thirty years as assemblyman, police commissioner, assistant secretary of the navy, colonel of the rough riders, governor of the state, vice president and president of the nation, and more latterly ambassador to the jungle and monitor to those who sit in the seats of the mighty.

He had an expansive smile for everybody, a cheery word for the "boys" his old friends the newspaper men, a pat anecdote for the politicians, special greetings of affection for his old command the rough riders, a quick eye for absolutely everything Lyman Abbott, he called "partner," Jacob Rits was plain "Jake," Assemblyman "Paradise Jimmy" Oliver was greeted by his nickname. Senator Thomas Grady, his old antagonist in state politics, he rallied expertly—and so he went down the line.

Roosevelt "good luck" still followed him. Though hot and sultry, the weather held fair until marine parade, the exercises at the Battery and the march up Broadway and Fifth avenue to Central Park had been carried through with punctuality and precision. Then it rained great guns. A torrential thunder shower, accompanied by a high wind that did much damage, swept suddenly down on the homeward-bound visitors; but cleared again shortly before 5 o'clock in plenty of time to give his eager fellow-citizens of Long Island a good chance to see him standing on the rear platform of his special train as he waved them a welcome.

In a generation the nation remembers three great welcomes before this of to-day—Gen. Grant at San Francisco, after his triumphal tour of the world, following the expiration of his two terms as president; to Admiral Dewey on his return from the capture of the Philippines, and to William Jennings Bryan, also after a tour of the world.

The welcome to Grant was the most tumultuous, that to Dewey the most elaborate and stately; but the welcome to Roosevelt to-day was shot through with a dramatic expectancy which long ago found popular expression in the typical phrase, "The return from Elba."

Grant on his return was still a political possibility; but as events proved, foredoomed to defeat.

Admiral Dewey was a hero, not a national leader. Bryan, prominent as his part had been before the people, had never been entrusted by them with executive responsibility.

Roosevelt had been something of all things all these men had been—statesman and "soldier" and sailor, too. Born in the East, he had made an especial friend of the West. Therefore his welcome to-day brought men from all parts of the country. Therefore it was national.

The first zeal of public curiosity satisfied, speculation now turns on what share Roosevelt will take in an acute political situation within his own party, of which he had already been advised abroad by old associates who had carried him tidings. But on that score speculation must rest unsatisfied.

The colonel had positively declared his intentions by wireless the night before.

I shall have nothing whatever to say in the immediate future about politics," and he kept his word.

It was the policy he had announced on his departure for Europe; he had reiterated on his return to civilization, and to which he had steadfastly adhered in all his addresses before the learned societies and universities of Great Britain and the Continent. Therefore, there was nothing in the only speech he made here to-day that could be construed as applying specifically to this or that phase of immediate state or national issue. That he will be importuned to take a hand in the New York campaign this fall is a foregone conclusion, but by his own declaration he will not commit himself to any expression of opinion until he has acquainted himself at first hand after long conferences with those best informed of just how the political land shapes itself.

ATTORNEYS BELIEVE COUNTY WILL WIN

In U. S. Circuit of Appeals Case of A. B. Beard Against It.

Mr. E. M. Woodward and County Attorney C. E. Smith returned the latter part of last week from Cincinnati, Ohio, where they had been to argue the case of A. B. Beard against Ohio County, representing the county in the litigation. They report that the indications are quite favorable for a decision in favor of the county. They base their opinion on the manner of questions which were asked attorneys representing the two litigants. From these it seemed apparent that the three judges composing the Court are inclined to the theory advanced by the county. The court will convene again in July, at which time an opinion in the case will probably be handed down. All the opinions of Circuit Court of Appeals are like the Kentucky Court of Appeals published in a series of reports.

The personal of the court was Judge Warrington, of Cincinnati, who succeeded Judge W. H. Taft, when he retired from the bench several years ago to accept the governorship of the Philippine Islands, Judge Knappen of Grand Rapids Michigan and Judge McCall of Memphis, Tennessee. The court heard the case in a very painstaking and patient manner and, was before the close of the four hours argument allotted thereto, thoroughly familiar with all of the points raised in the case.

It is not definitely known what further steps will be taken in the matter if an opinion unfavorably to the county is rendered but it is quite probable that the case will be carried to the United States Supreme Court. Attorneys representing the county as well as the officials thereof are doubtless imbued with the justness of their contention and will no doubt fight the case through all the courts.

School Notes.

There were 26 applicants for certificates at the examination held at Fordsville, last Friday and Saturday. There were eight first-class, eleven second class, and two third class certificates granted; the other five having failed. Miss Birdie Mae Nabors, of near Narrows, made the best average 90.5-11 per cent.

Mr. A. R. Ross, who began teaching in 1873 attended the examination and made an average of 87 per cent. Mr. Ross has not taught for several years, but as his grade shows, he is still very much alive to the educational interests of the day.

The State meeting of the K. E. A., is in session at Henderson this week. Prof. Brown, Prof. Mason and others of the county are in attendance.

After the 4th of July, the Superintendent will be away from his office most of the time looking after the building and repairing of school houses. Anyone having business with him should call on Saturdays. It is very earnestly desired that the public take notice to the above statement as it will save trouble both ways.

At the regular examination to be held July 15th and 16th, Hartford a competitive examination will be held for all those seeking an appointment to the State University at Lexington.

The contract for building the school house in division 2, sub-district 11, will be let on July 2nd.

HENRY LEACH, S. C. S.

J. O. KIMBLEY KILLED BY TRAIN

Last Tuesday Night on the L. & N. Railroad in a Manner Unknown.

J. O. Kimbley, a most estimable highly respected gentleman was killed Tuesday night on the L. and N. railroad in some manner just now unknown. He had been on a business trip to Ceraulvo, in Ohio county, and coming to Central City on the accommodation train that reaches here at 9:30 p. m. It is supposed, that knowing there would be no train till morning he started to walk to his home in Bevier. His body was found on the track in sight of his home with a 5-inch wound in the back of the head, the left foot and the right had crushed off. There was no evidence of a robbery as all his money was found in his pockets. As he was strictly a temperate man, never using liquor in any form, it is thought that he must have been overtaken by the freight and never noticed by the train crew in the darkness, as they did not know a man was killed until their return trip from Russellville, when on examining the engine, it was said a look of hair similar in color to Mr. Kimbley's was found on the axle of the wheels. Mr. Kimbley was fifty-seven years old, and leaves a wife and four grown sons. His tragical death is greatly regretted by his many friends.

The funeral occurred at the Ceraulvo burying ground, the old home of Mr. Kimbley.—Muhlenburg Sentinel.

Acton of Sulphur Springs. The marriage was a very quiet one, the attendance being only a few relatives and friends. Immediately after the ceremony, the bride and groom were accompanied to Louisville by the bride's brother, Mr. A. C. Acton. They will spend a few days there, then will return to their home in Hartford.

Their many friends wish them success and happiness.

CONGRESS NEAR END.

Adjournment Expected by July 25 at Farthest.

Much Interest in the Appointment of Successor of Justice Moody.

Washington, D. C., June 20.—Congress at Washington is expediting work with a view to an early adjournment, which it is thought by some will take place on Saturday, the 25th, inst., but which others think will not occur much before the 2nd or 3rd of July. After three months of uncertainty as to its fate, the bill admitting the territories of Arizona and New Mexico to statehood was taken up by the Senate on Thursday and passed after a brief debate of not more than two hours, and thus two more large territories are added to what is called the "Sixtyhood of States". All the speeches were favorable to the creation of the two states, but the Democrats of the Senate favored the House bill. As passed the bill provides for the admission as states of the two territories after a constitution has been adopted by each of them, which constitution must be approved by the President and ratified by Congress. There will be wild rejoicing in Arizona and New Mexico, for only a few days ago hope of achieving statehood during the present session of Congress had been given up.

After the adjournment of Congress there will be prompt departure from Washington of the members of the Cabinet and other officers connected with the civil, military and naval services of the government. The Secretary of War left Washington last night for a trip around the world. He will visit the Philippines, Russia, Siberia, China and Europe, sailing on June 28 by the Pacific Mail Steamship line. He is accompanied by his wife and son. Brigadier General Edwards, who has charge of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, with Mrs. Edwards and their daughter, will accompany the War Secretary. Gen. Edwards has often made the trip, on two occasions accompanying President Taft, who was at that time Secretary of War. The President and Mrs. Taft will go to their New England home. The ambassadors and other representatives of foreign countries will disperse to the seashore and mountain resorts and the capital will see them no more until the middle of September or first of October.

It is believed in official circles that Secretary of State Knox will welcome the opportunity to depart from national diplomatic life afforded by the nomination for governor of Pennsylvania which he is likely to receive. It is suspected that Mr. Knox finds a diplomatic life but little to his liking. Prior to his coming to Washington during McKinley's first administration, his experience had been entirely provincial and local, and it is probable that social and diplomatic relations largely with representatives of other governments who know English very imperfectly, the Secretary himself being confined to his vernacular, make his duties doubly onerous.

Much interest is experienced in political and local circles with reference to the appointment of a Justice of the Supreme Court to succeed Justice Moody, who, it is understood, will probably never be able to resume his duties on the Supreme Bench. A bill has been introduced in Congress to pension him. It is expected that President Taft will be under the necessity of appointing his successor, and in case he does it will be the third Justice of the highest court in the country that he has appointed during the first fifteen months of his presidency. It is very probable that before the end of his term he may be called upon to appoint still other justices of the Supreme Court because at least two of those on the bench are very near the age of superannuation.

The Senate is rapidly disposing of the measures originally proposed in the message of President Taft. The conservation bill was put upon its final passage early this week, and on Thursday the railway bill was disposed of. On Saturday the postal savings bank bill was under consideration and the final vote was taken before the day ended. There will be next week a motion to make the Appalachian Forest Reserve the special order of business in the Senate. There is a plan for building a number of large department buildings in Washington, involving an outlay of at least thirteen millions of dollars which it is expected will be launched at this session of Congress. The ground has already been purchased and a new State building a new Commerce and Labor building it is thought will be begun and completed in the next four or five years.

Ballinger Acquittal is Expected Saturday.

Washington, June 21.—When the Ballinger investigating committee meets next Saturday it will take a vote as to the decision to be rendered and adjourn until late in the summer, when its opinions will be made public. The meeting next Saturday will be perfunctory; the vote will be seven to five in favor of Ballinger. It is now stated that Representative Graham (Dem. Ill.) will write the minority opinion. Either Senator Sutherland (Rep. Utah), or Representative Olmstead (Rep. Pa.) will write the opinion of the seven majority members and Representative Madison (Rep. Kan.), an insurgent, will hand in a separate opinion against Ballinger. The three opinions are to be filed before the election this fall.

LYON COUNTY WOMAN ASSAULTED.

Authorities Searching for Unknown Assailant of Mrs. Kennedy.

Eddyville, Ky., June 21.—News has reached here that two unidentified white men had assaulted Mrs. Kennedy, a widow living at the Tennessee Rolling Mills, this county, and left her lying in her front yard unconscious. County Judge T. P. Gray, County Attorney J. S. Hodges, and Marshall W. P. McColium, of Kuttawa, left here immediately for the scene of the crime.

Although very nervous, Mrs. Kennedy was able to talk and stated that she did not know the two men who assaulted her, but that they were white men.

She stated that the two men came to her house about 1 o'clock the night before and walked in upon the porch. She was lying awake, she says, thinking about her sick daughter and when she heard the footsteps upon the porch she thought it was her son-in-law coming for her and she got up and opened the door before any alarm was given.

The men seized her and dragged her into the yard, threatening to kill her if she made any noise. She fainted and remembered nothing more, she says, until her daughter who was sleeping in another room heard groans near the front door and went to investigate, finding her mother prostrated and unconscious upon the ground.

Officers and many others of the neighborhood began a search for the assailants. A man was arrested near the scene and lodged in jail here. Two other men were with him when the officers discovered them, but they made their escape. The prisoner claims that he did not know the men who ran; that he was passing through the country and just happened to be in their company when the officers came upon them. Several shots were fired at the two men as they fled.

Great excitement prevails and a posse is scouring the country for the men who committed the crime. There is doubt as to the guilt of the man now in jail, but the clew is being followed up of the two men who fled under fire from the posse.
